

ArcelorMittal

Human Rights Policy

1. Introduction

ArcelorMittal is the world's leading steel company, with operations in more than 60 countries. The Company operates steel production and distribution facilities, as well as iron ore and coal mines. The ArcelorMittal Human Rights Policy articulates our respect for all Human Rights. This Policy focuses on the areas that have been identified as priorities for our industry.

The Policy is derived from:

- The United Nations (UN) Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the two International Covenants making up the International Bill of Human Rights;
- The International Labour Organisation's (ILO) Declaration of Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work; and
- The United Nations Global Compact.

Together, for the purposes of this Policy, the above documents are called the "International Human Rights Declarations".

2. Purpose

The ArcelorMittal Human Rights Policy sets out the principles for our actions and behaviour in relation to human rights. The Policy and associated practices are expected to strengthen over time as the Company gains a better understanding of and becomes more experienced in promoting human rights.

In support of this Policy we will develop operating procedures to create an environment where human rights are respected, and to also help ensure that we do not engage in activities that directly or indirectly violate human rights.

3. Scope

This Policy applies to all employees of ArcelorMittal subsidiaries and affiliates worldwide. In addition, our subcontractors working at our sites are expected to comply with this Policy. We will also promote its principles to our subcontractors and suppliers through our forthcoming Sustainable Supply Chain programme.

The ArcelorMittal Human Rights Policy complements and brings together the human rights aspects from other Company policies and guidelines. These include our Code of Business Conduct, the Health & Safety, Environment and Human Resources policies and the Anti-Corruption guidelines.

In implementing this Policy, we are subject to the laws of the many countries in which we operate and we are committed to comply with all such applicable laws.

Where our Policy, procedures and external commitments are more stringent than local laws, we operate in accordance with our standards. In situations where local law is less stringent than the International Human Rights Declarations, we endeavour to develop a response on a case-by-case basis while using our Policy as a guideline. Where local law prohibits us from upholding certain aspects of this Policy, we comply with these local laws while seeking to respect human rights.

4. Specific commitments and provisions

4.1. Commitments to stakeholders

Employees: We are committed to respect the human rights of our employees. We develop our employment policies with the aim to achieve uniform worldwide application of the relevant aspects contained in the International Human Rights Declarations. We are committed to train our employees to be aware of, respect and protect human rights in the workplace and in the local communities directly impacted by our operations.

Business partners: We seek to respect and promote human rights when engaging with subcontractors, suppliers, customers, joint venture and other partners. We will do this, as appropriate, through proactive engagement, monitoring and contractual provisions.

Local communities: We seek to respect human rights and to develop an understanding of the cultures, customs and values that prevail in our local communities by developing an inclusive and open dialogue with the people affected by our operations. The ArcelorMittal Community Engagement Standard requires us to conduct an open and inclusive dialogue with local communities, including engaging with often under-represented groups such as women and Indigenous Peoples.

4.2. Specific provisions

ArcelorMittal upholds freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining. We also work with our subcontractors and suppliers to promote the achievement of this principle.

Eliminating Forced or Compulsory Labour

ArcelorMittal opposes the use of forced or compulsory labour. We will also work with our subcontractors and suppliers to avoid indirectly benefiting from or promoting such illegal practices.

Abolishing Child Labour

ArcelorMittal opposes the use of child labour. We will work in collaboration with subcontractors and suppliers to prevent and remove any instances of child labour in a manner that is consistent with the best interests of the child.

Eliminating Unlawful Discrimination in the Workplace

Accordingly, any unlawful discriminatory practice based on race, colour, gender, sexual orientation, age, religion, ethnicity, national or social origin, property, political or other opinion, disability, birth or any other basis will not be tolerated. The Company seeks to provide each employee with equal opportunity for advancement without discrimination.

Local Communities

Respecting Indigenous Peoples' Rights

ArcelorMittal respects the rights of Indigenous Peoples as defined by applicable national and emerging international standards.

Adopting Proportionate Security Arrangements

ArcelorMittal aims to ensure that the provision of security to our operations and our engagement with public and private security forces is consistent with the laws of the relevant country and relevant international standards and guidelines, such as the Voluntary Principles on Security and Human Rights. We will adapt our security arrangements to balance the need for safety while respecting human rights.

Developing practices for Land and Water use

ArcelorMittal works towards understanding and applying sound practices for land and water use consistent with emerging international practices while respecting human rights, and in support of our Environment Policy.

5. Governance and accountability

The ArcelorMittal Group Management Board has overall responsibility for the implementation of this Policy. Our human rights performance will be reported to the Board of Directors at least annually, starting in 2011. We will report on our performance publicly in our annual Corporate Responsibility Report, available at: www.arcelormittal.com (Corporate Responsibility, Publications and Reports).

6. Implementation

The Company's implementation of this Human Rights Policy is expected to strengthen over time as risk assessments and due diligence procedures will increasingly take into account human rights aspects. Human Rights will also be integrated into social impact assessments, with separate human rights impact assessments completed where required.

This Policy is the overarching statement for other standards and procedures that will be developed as necessary by ArcelorMittal on specific human rights matters.

This Policy is supported by a guidance manual, training and Company-wide communications endorsed by the ArcelorMittal Group Management Board.

ArcelorMittal will share best practices between our operating units on rights' based grievance mechanisms, with the aim of establishing effective channels for redress for local stakeholders in relation to this Policy.

7. Review and monitoring

ArcelorMittal will periodically review the Policy and our implementation with respect to its suitability and effectiveness.

ArcelorMittal may seek to commission independent third parties to monitor its adherence to this Policy.

We also welcome feedback from, and dialogue with, interested parties. All feedback and comments on this Policy should be sent to crteam@arcelormittal.com.
